

Native American Arts at IDYLLWILD ARTS ACADEMY AND SUMMER PROGRAM

Idyllwild, California | Since 1946

Nestled on 205 acres of pristine pine forest located in Southern California's San Jacinto Mountains (the heart of Cahuilla country), the picturesque Idyllwild Arts campus is home to both the Academy, an international residential arts high school, and the Summer Program, an immersive camp experience for artists of all ages and abilities.

Native American Arts have been at the heart of Idyllwild Arts' curriculum and offerings since the organization was founded in 1946. The IA Native American Arts Center aspires to be a leader in advancing, teaching, and promoting Indigenous Arts by engaging with Native American artists and scholars to provide year-round learning opportunities for all through the Summer Program and Academy alike.

Indigenous teaching artists, traditional knowledge bearers, and scholars convene at Idyllwild Arts to cross-pollinate their creative talents and develop their craft, contributing to a global art community through education and helping to shape the next generation of citizen artists. Continue your creative journey at Idyllwild Arts and join the long list of renowned Native artists who have taught and performed here:

Brent Michael Davids | Natalie Diaz | Sydney Freeland | Michael Kabotie | James Luna | Maria Martinez | Mary Kathryn Nagle | Barbara Teller Ornelas | Lynda Teller Pete | Fritz Scholder | Jock Soto | ...and many more
